With the Future Friendly & Bioware range, you can package your delicious food sustainably, to build your brand responsibly.

Terminology

Recyclable: These products can be reprocessed, and the resulting material is manufactured into new products.

Renewable: Made from natural resources which replenish to overcome resource depletion caused by usage and consumption, either through biological reproduction or other naturally recurring processes in a finite amount of time in a human time scale.

Rapidly renewable: Materials that are natural and have harvest cycles of under 10 years.

Industrially compostable: This product can be composted in an industrial composting facility. An industrial compost facility is a place where the perfect balance of heat, moisture, and oxygen is created to break down organic and plant-based materials. Our products with this claim are compostable to either the ASTM D6400 or EN13432 certification.

Home compostable: These products can be placed in a home compost bin where it will decompose and become soil within a measured period of time. Every component and material used in the packaging will break down and decompose into the soil.

Sugarcane: Bagasse is a sugar production by-product. Once the sugarcane's juice is squeezed out, the tough, fibrous pulp remains. Because it's a by-product, bagasse is frequently discarded. However, Huhtamaki reclaims sugarcane bagasse and uses it to make Future Friendly plates, bowls, trays, hamburger clamshells and more.

PET: Polyethylene terephthalate (PET) is widely recycled and can be sorted in waste management systems. It is food safe, provides excellent clarity and is crack resistant.

rPET: Made from recycled PET, material is produced without exhausting natural resources.

PP: Polypropylene (PP) floats in water so it can be easily sorted by waste management companies who typically rely on float-sink tanks to separate polymers and to remove contaminants.

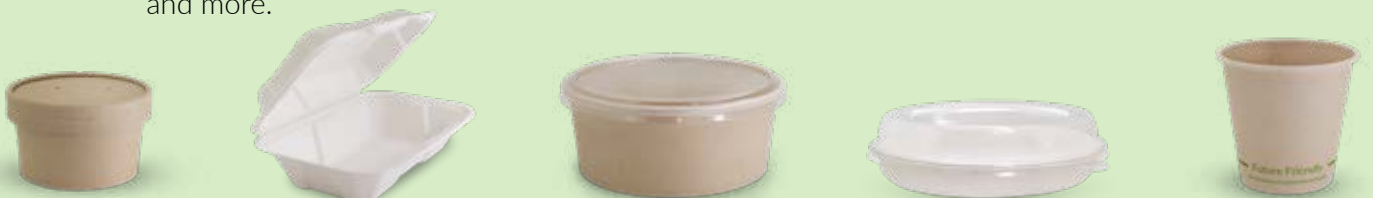

PLA: Polylactic acid (PLA) packaging is produced from renewable feedstock (cornstarch), is compostable in industrial composting facilities. Closed loop composting is required.

CPLA: Crystallized Polylactic acid (CPLA) packaging is produced from modified PLA. The PLA must go through a crystallisation process in order for it to withstand high temperatures. CPLA is compostable in industrial composting facilities. Closed loop composting is required.

Bamboo: Bamboo grows so fast it's classed as a rapidly renewable resource; in fact, an entire bamboo forest can grow in just a few years. Bamboo regenerates from its roots. So, for a new crop to grow, it doesn't need replanting. Bamboo's strength and heat-resistance make it perfect for producing sustainable and highly-functional foodservice products.

Bioware

Bioware products offer you the same advantages as conventional single-use products; sturdy, convenient, hygienic yet with the knowledge they are sourced sustainably from nature.
